

CWIN on the Move

CWIN's response to relief and recovery of earthquake survivors

25 April – 30 September 2015

CWIN reached 14 affected districts with relief materials

Relief with dignity

- During this period, CWIN has distributed aid including food supplies, tarpaulins, medicines, special child packs and recreational packs to more than 30,000 families and more than 150,000 people in 14 most affected districts of Nepal.
- These districts are Kathmandu, Bhaktapur, Lalitpur, Dhading, Dolakha, Gorkha, Kaski, Kavre, Makwanpur, Nuwakot, Ramechhap, Rasuwa, Sindhuli and Sindhupalchowk.

Relief with Dignity

- CWIN distributed family packs containing food supplies such as rice, lentils, oil, sugar, noodles, beaten rice, soaps, water purifier tablets, tarpaulines, blankets, mattresses, sanitary napkins, etc. and other amenities.

Child Protection

- CWIN Child Helpline 1098 was able to reach out to about 5,800 children through various emergency and humanitarian services to child survivors of earthquake who were at risk. During this period, Child Helpline 1098 hotline number has received more than 18,000 calls.

Child Protection Desks

In addition to running child protection desks in Kathmandu, Makwanpur, Kaski, Morang, Banke and Kailali; CWIN has now initiated district child protection desks in affected districts Kavre, Sindhupalchowk, and Dolkha to protect vulnerable children from abuse and exploitation. Likewise, Contact Centre being run by CWIN at the Central Bus Terminal in Kathmandu is working for preventing trafficking and unsafe migration.

Child Friendly Spaces

CWIN is operating 72 Child Friendly Spaces and child protection help desks in Kirtipur, Kathmandu and Dolakha providing safe space and creative activities to thousands of children

65000 Child Packs distributed to children

Health and Medical Support

- CWIN conducted 52 Health Camps in 11 districts for 18700 children and adults in cooperation with Nepal Pediatric Society (NEPAS) and volunteer doctors from USA and Germany.
- CWIN is also providing support for children with critical illness identified in the health camps for their further treatment and surgery.
- CWIN also provided generator, water tank, medicines and clothes to Kanti Children's Hospital. CWIN has also helped establish first Child Psychiatry OPD in the hospital.

We distributed relief materials including blankets, food, toys, stationery to injured children admitted in hospitals. CWIN also distributed water purification device with jerry cans to eight northern VDCs of Dolakha.

Closely worked with NEPAS for prevention of possible outbreak of communicable diseases

CWIN has distributed 250,000 leaflets on psycho-social wellbeing of children and established mobile counseling camps along with Nepal Psychological Institute in temporary shelter camps, to respond to the psycho-social needs of traumatised children.

Temporary Learning Centres (TLCs)

- CWIN/RDTA TUKI are also in the process of constructing 165 TLCs in Dolakha, Makwanpur, Sindhupalchok, Kavre, Dhading and Kathmandu. Most of these are already in operation.

- In order to make these TLCs more children friendly, CWIN has distributed 610 recreational packs and school kits

Psychosocial Support

In coordination with NEPAS and Child Health Division of the Ministry of Health, CWIN has produced 200,000 leaflets to raise awareness on psychosocial wellbeing of children in times of disaster among parents and guardians.

CWIN along with Nepal Institute of Psychology (NIP) has established mobile counseling camps in multiple hospitals and temporary shelter camps in order to respond to the psychosocial needs of traumatized children.

So far, CWIN has trained 100 social workers and counselors on Psycho-social First Aid (PFA), who are now involved in this initiative with children at different locations within and outside the valleys in districts like Nuwakot, Dolakha, Kaski, Makwanpur and Sindhupalchowk.

CWIN Child Helpline 1098 continues to provide telephone counseling to children and young people who call the hotline number.

Temporary Shelters

- CWIN also distributed tarpaulins, mattresses and blankets to 16200 families in the initial days of earthquake.

- CWIN and TUKI will also be supporting about 4000 families to build temporary shelters in Dolakha and Dhading districts.

Disaster Networking and Coordination

- CWIN has initiated a loose network of 14 organizations mobilizing disaster volunteers entitled 'Nepal Disaster Volunteer Coordination Network'. This network is working to jointly respond to the needs of flood and landslide victims of Taplejung District. The network has mobilized 1085 youth volunteers and more than 1000 local villagers who have worked with CWIN selflessly in delivering relief to children and families this past month.

Beyond relief and recovery

- CWIN has now begun strategizing on the community level to develop innovative initiatives for the rebuilding/reconstruction process.
- We have started consultations with the local stakeholders, community members and children themselves to design a sustainable intervention to restore a dignified life for the families and children affected.
- We want to develop initiatives that will empower the communities, women and children and which reduce long-term dependency on external aid.
